TPN, Andhra Pradesh: Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu addressed the media conference in Vijayawada, responding to recent incidents involving boats striking the Prakasam Barrage gates amidst the ongoing flood situation.

During his press conference, CM Naidu questioned "There are serious doubts surrounding the circumstances under which these boats hit the barrage gates," Naidu stated. He assured the public that a thorough inquiry has been ordered to investigate the incident and determine the exact cause.

Highlighting the challenges faced in flood relief operations, Naidu criticized certain officials for their inadequate performance and alleged that some were acting based on political interests rather than the public good. "Officials who are not performing their duties effectively in the flood relief programs and those who are acting according to political interests need to focus on humanitarian efforts," he remarked.

CM Naidu appealed to both government officials and civilians to prioritize the welfare of those affected by the floods. "Everyone should come forward to help their fellow human beings in trouble. Those in safe areas are encouraged to assist at least one family in need," he urged.

Addressing the public's concerns, Naidu mentioned that the government is actively taking feedback through the Interactive Voice Response System (IVRS) to identify and rectify any issues promptly. "Only those who are truly desperate should seek help. Providing wrong

CM Naidu expressed his dissatisfaction with Jagan's recent visit to the flood-affected areas in Vijayawada. "He came yesterday... He did a show for five minutes and left. Did he give a packet lunch to at least one person? Did he visit one person? Did he reassure one person? Isn't there any positive contribution?" Naidu questioned. He further accused Jagan of engaging in "perverse antics" and labeled his actions as "useless antics," drawing a controversial parallel by referencing the notorious figure Escobar. "Whatever Escobar did, he used to do the same," Naidu asserted.

The Chief Minister's comments reflect the heightened political tensions amid the state's efforts to manage and mitigate the devastating effects of the recent floods. As Andhra Pradesh continues to navigate the challenges posed by the natural disaster, calls for effective leadership and unified relief efforts remain paramount.

Rammohan Naidu Criticizes Jagan for Politicizing AP Floods

What is the relationship between Chandrababu's house and Budameru?

Jagan should change, or else people will keep him away from politics forever

TPN, Amaravati: Union Minister and TDP leader Rammohan Naidu has sharply criticized YCP chief Jagan Mohan Reddy, accusing him of engaging in unnecessary politics during a time when the focus should be on supporting flood victims. Naidu's remarks come in response to Jagan's recent comments linking former Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu's house to the Budameru floods.

Rammohan Naidu questioned the relevance of Jagan's statements, asking, "What is the relationship between Chandrababu's house and Budameru?" He emphasized that it is inappropriate to indulge in political rhetoric during a natural disaster when the priority should be on providing relief to those affected. Naidu suggested that Jagan could learn from Chandrababu Naidu's approach to managing calamities, highlighting the need for effective and responsible leadership during such crises.

Expressing his frustration, Naidu advised Jagan to reconsider his approach, warning that continued political maneuvering during such sensitive times could alienate him from the public. "Jagan should change, or else people will keep him away from politics forever," he cautioned.

Naidu reassured that the central government would support Andhra Pradesh in every possible way. He also mentioned that while declaring the floods as a national calamity is a priority, the decision must be based on a thorough examination of the technical aspects involved.

Nagababu Fires Back at Jagan Over 'Man-Made Disaster' Claim

TPN, Andhra Pradesh: As Andhra Pradesh grapples with the devastation caused by heavy floods in Vijayawada, political tensions have escalated with a sharp exchange between opposition leader YS Jagan Mohan Reddy and Deputy CM Pawan Kalyan's brother, Nagababu. The floods have left thousands displaced and ongoing relief operations are striving to mitigate the damage.

During a visit to the flood-affected Singh Nagar area, Jagan Reddy criticized the state government, labeling the floods as a "man-made disaster" due to alleged mismanagement. This remark sparked a strong response from Nagababu, who took to social media to challenge Jagan's accusations.

In a biting tweet, Nagababu criticized Jagan's characterization of the floods, drawing a comparison to a past incident during Jagan's own tenure as Chief Minister. He recalled the Annamayi project disaster, where a gate collapse led to catastrophic flooding, resulting in the displacement of villages and the disappearance of 15 people. Nagababu pointed out that this incident was a clear example of human error, contrasting it with the current situation in Vijayawada.

"Calling the Vijayawada floods a man-made disaster is misleading," Nagababu wrote. "If we talk about real human error, it was during the YCP government's time when the Annamayi project gate failure occurred. That was a true man-made disaster." He went on to criticize Jagan, questioning his understanding of the issue and suggesting that, as a "first-class student," Jagan should be able to distinguish between natural and man-made disasters.

Nagababu concluded his tweet with a pointed remark, urging Jagan to focus on providing practical support to the flood victims. "Instead of making baseless claims, it would be more beneficial if you visit the flood-affected areas and offer financial aid to those who have lost everything," he added.

Palla Srinivasa Rao Criticizes Jagan for Politicizing Flood Crisis

TPN, Andhra Pradesh: Andhra Pradesh TDP President Palla Srinivasa Rao launched a scathing attack on YCP chief Jagan Mohan Reddy, accusing him of politicizing the recent flood crisis and spreading misinformation. In a sharp critique, Palla Srinivasa Rao claimed that Jagan has been "provoking" the Budameru River situation for the past five years and is now attempting to shift blame onto the coalition government.

Palla Srinivasa Rao took particular issue with Jagan's recent statements, where Jagan suggested that the Budameru water was diverted towards former Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu's house. Palla dismissed these claims as baseless and a clear sign of Jagan's "stupidity." He urged Jagan to refrain from engaging in "fake campaigns" and instead focus on making constructive criticisms that benefit the public.

Highlighting the TDP's response to the floods, Palla Srinivasa Rao praised Chandrababu Naidu for his swift and effective relief efforts, likening them to military operations. He commended the use of helicopters, drones, and boats in the rescue operations, emphasizing that such decisive actions were crucial in aiding the flood victims.

Palla Srinivasa Rao also advised politicians to prioritize the public interest, especially during times of crisis, and to avoid unnecessary political mudslinging. His comments underscore the ongoing political tensions in Andhra Pradesh, where the recent floods have become a focal point for both governance and opposition rhetoric.

I stand with Kadambari, I am ready to fight alongside her

TPN, Kadapa: In a bold move, PCC Chief YS Sharmila has come out strongly against the alleged harassment of Mumbai-based actress Kadambari Jethwani by former Chief Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy and industrialist Sajjan Jindal. Sharmila, who has been vocal about the delayed construction of the Kadapa Steel Plant, criticized the duo for their inaction despite the plant being a cherished dream of her father, the late YSR.

During a press conference today, Sharmila reiterated the importance of the Kadapa Steel Plant, which has long been a symbol of development for the region. She accused Jindal's company of failing to take any substantial steps towards the construction of the plant, despite repeated assurances. "If Sajjan Jindal was indeed serious about this project, we would have seen some progress by now," she said. "Instead, we are faced with the shocking allegations involving a woman, which raises many questions."

Sharmila expressed her outrage over the reports of Kadambari Jethwani being coerced and harassed, suggesting that a well-orchestrated plan was in place to suppress her. She warned that this was not a simple case of negligence but a deliberate act to cover up a larger conspiracy. "This is no ordinary master plan. It seems a scheme was laid to bind a woman in this web," she asserted.

Drawing attention to the personal connections between Jagan and Jindal, Sharmila claimed that the two were operating under a secret pact she referred to as "J Swear." She questioned their integrity, stating, "If your minds are focused on the Kadapa Steel Plant, maybe someday it will be completed. But now, it seems there are other intentions at play."

Sharmila further alleged that Jindal, if he had truly wanted to resolve the issue, could have done so by offering a substantial settlement to Kadambari. Instead, she believes the matter has been unnecessarily prolonged, suggesting foul play. "If they thought they could silence her by using IPS officers, they are mistaken. I stand with Kadambari, and if they need my support, I am ready to fight alongside her," she declared.

Questioning Jagan's ethics, Sharmila pointed out that as a father of two daughters, he should be more sensitive to the situation. She demanded a swift inquiry into the matter and called for accountability from those involved. "Jagan must provide answers. The people of Kadapa deserve to know the truth," Sharmila concluded.

Sharmila submitted a petition to the Kadapa Collector today, urging immediate action on the construction of the Kadapa Steel Plant and a thorough investigation into the allegations against Jagan and Jindal.

Where is Pawan Kalyan and Nara Lokesh???

TPN, Andhra Pradesh: Former minister and YSR Congress Party (YCP) leader RK Roja, who had been relatively absent from the public eye since YCP's defeat in Andhra Pradesh, made a significant reappearance today. In a newly released video, Roja addressed the ongoing flood crisis in Vijayawada, launching a scathing critique of the state government's response and questioning the absence of key leaders like Deputy CM Pawan Kalyan and Nara Lokesh.

In her video message, RK Roja expressed deep concern and heartbreak over the suffering of the people in Vijayawada, particularly highlighting the plight of children, women, and the elderly who have been trapped in the floodwaters. She condemned the state government's failure to effectively manage the situation, blaming their negligence for the hardships endured by the flood victims.

Roja accused the ministers of abandoning their responsibilities by going on vacations while the people were left to drown in the floods. She emphasized that her criticism was not unfounded, urging viewers to watch TV channels, including those affiliated with the TDP, to witness the dire conditions the people of Vijayawada have faced over the past few days.

In a direct attack on the state leadership, Roja alleged that the government's inability to provide even basic necessities like food and water during the crisis was a clear indication of its failure. She pointed ed out the irony that despite the calamity occurring just three kilometers away from former Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu's residence, there was a lack of adequate support for the affected citizens. She argued that with proper warnings and timely action, the suffering could have been mitigated.

Roja's pointed remarks also included a sharp inquiry into the whereabouts of Pawan Kalyan and Nara Lokesh during the crisis, questioning why these prominent leaders were not present to support the people during such a critical time.

TPN, Vijayawada: Union Minister and TDP leader Rammohan Naidu actively participated in a high-level review meeting on the ongoing flood situation in Vijayawada, which was chaired by Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Nara Chandrababu Naidu. The meeting, held at the Vijayawada Collectorate, also saw the presence of TDP General Secretary Nara Lokesh and key officials.

The meeting also included a briefing by the Director General of the National Disaster Response Force (NDRF), who provided insights into the coordination between the state government and disaster response teams. The officials reviewed the current status of the flood relief operations, assessed the needs of the affected areas, and planned further actions to mitigate the impact of the disaster.

Rammohan Naidu's participation in the review highlights the concerted efforts by the state and central governments to manage the flood situation in Vijayawada and ensure the safety and well-being of the people affected by the calamity.

Tragic Incident in Power Restoration Efforts in Vijayawada

TPN, Vijayawada: A tragic incident occurred during the ongoing power restoration efforts in flood-affected areas of Vijayawada when Koteswara Rao, a lineman, lost his life while on duty. Rao was swept away by the floodwaters as he worked to restore power in areas inundated by the overflow of the Budameru River.

State Power Minister Gottipati Ravikumar expressed deep shock and sorrow over the incident. He extended his heartfelt condolences to the family of Koteswara Rao, acknowledging the lineman's dedication and sacrifice. The minister personally called Rao's wife, Madha-vi, and other family members, offering them words of courage during this difficult time. He assured them that the government would provide full support to the family, recognizing the invaluable service that Koteswara Rao provided.

The incident highlights the risks faced by those working tirelessly to restore essential services in the aftermath of the severe flooding that has affected many areas in Vijayawada. The government and the community mourn the loss of Koteswara Rao, a dedicated worker who gave his life in service to others.

14.76 Lakh Metric Tonnes of Sand Available in the State

TPN, Amaravati: Mukesh Kumar Meena, Principal Secretary of the State Mines and Mining Department in Andhra Pradesh, has reported that the state currently has a stockpile of 14,76,958 metric tonnes of sand across 28 storage centers. This announcement comes as the state deals with temporary disruptions in sand supply due to the heavy rains and floods affecting various regions.

Meena, who also serves as Chief Secretary of the Department of Commercial Taxes, explained that the supply from various reaches has been interrupted because of the adverse weather conditions. However, he assured that once the rains recede and transportation routes are restored, the supply of sand will resume at full speed.

Despite these challenges, the state is actively working to meet the demand for sand. On Tuesday, 1,027 applications were received across Andhra Pradesh, requesting 13,011 metric tonnes of sand. Additionally, the department fulfilled 202 pending applications, supplying an extra 3,356 metric tonnes. In total, 16,367 metric tonnes of sand were distributed to 1,229 applicants.

Mukesh Kumar Meena urged users to be patient and contribute to the process, particularly in areas where road conditions have been compromised by the floods. He emphasized that the government is committed to ensuring the steady supply of sand as soon as the situation normalizes.

Nara Lokesh and Revanth Reddy Thanked to Jr NTR

TPN, Andhra Pradesh: The Telugu states of Andhra Pradesh and Telangana have been severely impacted by heavy rains, prompting an outpouring of support from various quarters, including the film industry. The actor announced that this contribution would be split between the Chief Minister's Relief Funds of Andhra Pradesh and Telangana.

In response to this act of generosity, Telangana Chief Minister Revanth Reddy and Andhra Pradesh Minister Nara Lokesh publicly expressed their Revanth Reddy and Nara Lokesh also extended their thanks to actor Vishwak Sen, who similarly donated to support the relief efforts. The contributions from these film celebrities have been widely appreciated, as they play a significant role in bolstering the ongoing efforts to provide relief and rehabilitation to those affected by the devastating rains in the Telugu states.

Flood levels are decreasing in Vijayawada: Minister Narayana

TPN, Vijayawada: The flood situation in Vijayawada is gradually improving as water levels at the Prakasam Barrage begin to recede. Minister Ponguru Narayana provided an update today, confirming that the flow of water has decreased from 11 lakh cusecs yesterday to 7 lakh cusecs today, signaling the start of a return to normalcy in the city.

Minister Narayana highlighted the government's ongoing efforts to support flood victims, stating that 8.5 lakh food packets were distributed today, with an equal number of breakfast packets also provided to those in need. This large-scale distribution aims to ensure that no one affected by the floods goes without food during this critical time.

The minister also addressed the challenges posed by the aftermath of the floods, revealing that significant amounts of silt have accumulated in the canals of Vijayawada, and mud and sand have been deposited on roads in the flood-hit areas. To address this, he announced that a major cleanup operation would begin tomorrow, with the removal of silt and debris being conducted on a "war footing" to restore the city's infrastructure.

Each division in the city has been assigned to a municipal commissioner, with special officers designated for each secretariat to oversee the recovery efforts. Narayana emphasized that 10,000 workers will be deployed for sanitation work in the flooded areas, ensuring that the cleanup process is swift and thorough.

The minister further explained that once the floodwaters fully recede, the fire department will begin cleaning the roads using tankers. Additionally, to prevent the outbreak of infectious diseases, the government will undertake bleaching and fogging operations. Medical camps will also be organized in collaboration with the health department to provide necessary medical care to the affected residents.

Rains and Floods Disrupt Train Services in Vijayawada

TPN, Vijayawada: The ongoing heavy rains and floods in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana have severely impacted the transportation sector, leading to significant disruptions in train services. The South Central Railway has announced the cancellation and diversion of several trains due to the adverse weather conditions.

In the Vijayawada region, many trains have been canceled to ensure passenger safety. Among the affected services are trains passing through Tirupati, several of which have been canceled entirely. Some trains have been diverted via alternate routes, including Tenali.

Notable cancellations include the Krishna Express, Sabari Express, and Visakha Special Express trains. Additionally, the Padmavati Express, which operates between Secunderabad and Tirupati, is running with a delay of five and a half hours due to the weather conditions.

Further disruptions include the cancellation of the Visakhapatnam-Nanded and Nanded-Visakhapatnam trains. The Chennai Central-Shri Mata Vaishno Devi Katra Express has been diverted through Vijayawada, Visakhapatnam, and Vijayanagaram to avoid the flooded areas.

Passengers are advised to check the latest updates from South Central Railway before planning their travel, as more trains may be affected depending on the evolving weather conditions. The authorities are working to restore normal services as soon as the situation improves.

India And China May Finally Be Warming Up To Each Other

In recent months, there have been subtle but significant developments in the relationship between India and China, particularly in the context of ongoing border tensions and economic engagement. While it's too early to declare a full thaw in relations, the diplomatic exchanges and policy shifts suggest a cautious warming trend.

Diplomatic Engagements: A Softening Tone?

July witnessed a renewed diplomatic dialogue between India and China, marked by two meetings between Indian External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar and China's top diplomat, Wang Yi. Notably, the first of these meetings signaled a softer tone from Beijing, with Wang Yi refraining from his usual remarks about putting the border issue in the "appropriate position." Instead, he emphasized the importance of "properly handling and controlling the situation in the border areas, while actively resuming normal exchanges."

The second meeting reinforced this shift, with the Chinese statement highlighting the need to "work for new progress in consultations on border affairs." This led to two meetings of the Working Mechanism for Consultation & Coordination on India-China Border Affairs within a month, the most recent of which took place last week.

The Chinese readout following these discussions was notably positive. It stated that both sides had "agreed to work together to turn over a new leaf in the border situation at an early date," indicating a narrowing of differences and an expansion of consensus. In contrast, the Indian readout was more restrained, focusing on the "frank, constructive and forward-looking exchange of views" aimed at narrowing differences and finding an early resolution to the outstanding issues along the Line of Actual Control (LAC). The effectiveness of these discussions in resolving the disputes in Depsang and Demchok remains to be seen.

Reconsidering Economic Engagement with China

Simultaneously, India is witnessing a renewed debate on economic engagement with China. The Economic Survey released ahead of the new NDA government's budget in July hinted at a possible reopening of doors to Chinese investments. This marks a significant shift from the stringent scrutiny that Chinese investments have faced since the issuance of Press Note 3 in April 2020, which was seen as an effort to direct Chinese capital into desirable sectors. The situation further deteriorated following the Galwan Valley clashes in June 2020, which effectively froze any appetite for Chinese investments in India.

However, recent reports suggest a gradual easing of these restrictions. Since April 2020, the Indian government has approved 124 investment proposals from bordering countries, many of which are from China, while rejecting 201. A significant number of proposals remain pending. This cautious reopening is exemplified by the March 2024 joint venture between MG Motor India and JSW Group, where Chinese auto giant SAIC Motor divested a 51% stake. Moreover, in July, the government notified electronics and automobile manufacturers about plans to establish an inter-ministerial panel to accelerate the approval process for Chinese investments.

Balancing Pragmatism with Caution

India's approach to Chinese capital is marked by pragmatism, recognizing the importance of Chinese investments in boosting India's manufacturing sector and integrating with global value chains. Yet, this pragmatism is tempered by caution. External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar recently emphasized the need for scrutiny of Chinese investments, given the geopolitical challenges and security concerns. He called for a structured investment review mechanism with clear guidelines, conditions, and timelines to ensure predictability and democratic oversight.

However, working with Chinese entities remains fraught with risks. The volatility in India-China relations, deeply rooted in structural fault lines, means that political and security considerations will always take precedence. As a result, the risks for Indian industry in engaging with Chinese capital are likely to remain high.

Charting a Clear Path Forward

As India navigates this complex relationship, it is crucial for its political and strategic communities to deliberate on the desired contours of its relationship with China. While many have called for a new modus vivendi, there is a need for deeper reflection on what this new state of affairs should look like and how India can achieve it. Only through purposeful and pragmatic policy can India hope to manage its delicate relationship with China effectively.

How PMJDY Sparked a Ripple Effect Across India's Economy

The Pradhan Mantri Jan Dhan Yojana (PMJDY), launched on August 28, 2014, stands as a transformative initiative in India's journey towards financial inclusion. Much like the Marshall Plan of 1948 that revitalized post-war Europe, PMJDY has created a significant ripple effect across India's economy by bringing millions of people into the formal banking system. This inclusion has not only enhanced economic participation but also contributed to poverty reduction and social stability.

A Catalyst for Financial Inclusion

The PMJDY aimed to integrate 7.5 crore unbanked households into the formal financial system through the JAM (Jan Dhan, Aadhar, Mobile) trinity. By August 2024, more than 80% of Indian adults had formal financial accounts, a significant increase from around 50% in 2011. Public sector banks, which manage 78% of PMJDY accounts, have opened approximately 53 crore accounts with total balances amounting to ₹2.31 lakh crore. Notably, 55.6% of these accounts belong to women, and 66.6% are in rural and semi-urban areas, underscoring the scheme's broad reach and social impact.

The increase in average account balances from ₹1,065 in March 2015 to ₹4,352 in August 2024 indicates a growing trust and reliance on formal banking channels. The program has also been linked to social benefits, including reductions in thefts and decreased consumption of intoxicants in states with higher account penetration.

Economic Empowerment and Growth

One of the most compelling aspects of financial inclusion is its ability to drive economic growth and reduce poverty. According to studies, financial inclusion contributes to economic growth by mobilizing savings, fostering capital accumulation, and improving resource allocation. PMJDY has played a critical role in this by providing millions with access to credit, savings, insurance, and payment systems. This access has empowered individuals to invest in education, health, and businesses, leading to improved economic outcomes.

The PMJDY, coupled with the Pradhan Mantri Mudra Yojana (PMMY), has significantly impacted India's micro and small enterprises. Since its inception in 2015, the PMMY has provided over ₹27.75 lakh crore in loans to 47 crore entrepreneurs, with 69% of these loans going to women and 51% to SC/ST and OBC entrepreneurs. This has promoted financial inclusion and social equity while supporting job creation, particularly in rural and semi-urban areas.

The Digital Revolution and Fintech Innovation

The rise of fintech has added a new dimension to financial inclusion, introducing innovative products and services that reach previously underserved populations. The deployment of the India Stack—a set of APIs that enable seamless, paperless, and cashless service delivery—has been instrumental in extending financial services to millions.

The Unified Payments Interface (UPI), a key component of the India Stack, has revolutionized digital payments in India. By allowing instant money transfers between bank accounts via mobile phones, UPI has drastically reduced transaction costs and eliminated the need for physical banking infrastructure. As a result, millions who were previously excluded from the formal financial system now have access to efficient and convenient financial services.

A Keystone for an Inclusive Economy

The ripple effect of PMJDY across India's economy is undeniable. By fostering financial inclusion, PMJDY has driven economic growth, reduced poverty, and promoted social equity. The program's success underscores the importance of targeted interventions in achieving broad-based economic development. As India continues to innovate and expand its digital financial infrastructure, the potential for even greater financial inclusion remains within reach, paving the way for a more inclusive and prosperous future.

UP Government Extends Deadline for Employee Property Declarations

The Uttar Pradesh government has extended the deadline for its employees to submit their property details by one month. This extension applies to the mandatory requirement for all officers and employees of the state government to register their immovable and movable assets for the 2023-2024 financial year on the departmental evaluation portal, Manav Sampada.

The original deadline for submitting these details was August 31. However, with only 74% of the state's 1.78 million government employees having complied by that date, the government decided to provide an additional month for the remaining employees to fulfill this obligation. The decision was announced by Shishir, the Director of the Department of Information and Public Relations.

The Manav Sampada portal is an integrated human resource management system developed to streamline and digitize various HR processes within government departments. This platform plays a critical role in managing tasks such as recruitment, postings, promotions, and transfers, ensuring a more efficient and transparent administrative process.

For the current financial year, the state government has made it compulsory for all its employees to disclose their property holdings on this portal. This move is part of broader efforts to enhance transparency and accountability within the public service.

It's important for employees to note that failing to register their property details on the Manav Sampada portal could have serious consequences. According to the directives, any employee who does not submit their asset information within the extended deadline will be marked as absent. As a result, they will not receive their monthly salary, adding significant urgency to comply with this requirement.

The extension of the deadline provides a crucial window for the remaining 26% of employees who have yet to submit their property details. It also underscores the state government's commitment to ensuring complete compliance with this mandate, while also providing some leniency in the face of the significant number of pending submissions.

As the new deadline approaches, it is expected that all government employees will take the necessary steps to complete their registrations on the Manav Sampada portal, thereby avoiding any disruptions in their salary disbursements and ensuring adherence to state regulations.

Congress and AAP Reach Agreement for Haryana Assembly Election Alliance

The Congress and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) have reached an "in-principal understanding" to jointly contest the upcoming Haryana Assembly elections, sources revealed on Tuesday. This alliance, which aims to consolidate opposition votes against the ruling BJP, has entered a critical phase of seat-sharing negotiations.

The AAP has reportedly requested 10 out of the 90 seats, but Congress is inclined to offer only five to seven, while also considering one seat for the Samajwadi Party. Key figures like AAP's Rajya Sabha MP Raghav Chadha and Congress General Secretary KC Venugopal are expected to meet soon to finalize the arrangement, with the nomination deadline set for October 4 and voting on October 5.

The alliance reflects a broader strategy within the INDIA bloc, led by Congress, to avoid vote splitting in the 2024 general elections. In the 2024 Haryana Lok Sabha election, Congress and AAP contested on a 9:1 seat-sharing ratio, with Congress winning five seats and AAP losing its sole contest in Kurukshetra. This collaboration is seen as crucial for maintaining the momentum from the bloc's strong performance in recent elections and challenging the BJP's dominance in Haryana.

BJP's Rajib Bhattacharjee Wins Tripura's Lone Rajya Sabha Seat

Rajib Bhattacharjee, the state president of the BJP in Tripura, secured the state's lone Rajya Sabha seat on Tuesday, defeating CPI(M) candidate Sudhan Das by a margin of 37 votes. Bhattacharjee received support from 47 MLAs, while Das garnered 10 votes. The Congress, which holds three seats in the 60-member assembly, abstained from voting.

Deputy Speaker Ramprasad Paul confirmed Bhattacharjee's victory, noting that all members of the ruling alliance backed the BJP nominee. Expressing his gratitude, Bhattacharjee thanked the legislators who supported him, as well as Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah, and BJP national president J.P. Nadda for their trust in him.

"I am thankful to all those MLAs who have supported me in the election and also extend special thanks to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah, and BJP national president for keeping faith in me," Bhattacharjee said. Bhattacharjee, who had previously contested and lost in last year's assembly elections, vowed to focus on the development of Tripura and its people as a member of the Rajya Sabha. His victory solidifies the BJP's influence in the state, where it has maintained a stronghold in recent years.

This win comes at a crucial time as the BJP continues to strengthen its position across the northeastern states, ahead of the 2024 general elections. Bhattacharjee's commitment to the state's development is expected to play a significant role in furthering the party's agenda in the region.

Ex-Principal of RG Kar Medical College Arrested by CBI, Sent to 8-Day Custody

Sandip Ghosh, the former principal of RG Kar Medical College, has been sent to eight days of police custody following his arrest by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on charges of financial irregularities. Ghosh, who is also under scrutiny for his role in the investigation of a 31-year-old doctor's rape and murder at the college on August 9, was arrested alongside three others.

The CBI, which had sought 10 days of custody, made the arrest in connection with alleged financial mismanagement during Ghosh's tenure as principal. The other arrested individuals include vendors Biplav Singha and Suman Hazara, who supplied medicine to the hospital, and Afsar Ali, a security guard.

Ghosh's role in the aftermath of the woman doctor's death has been widely criticized. The Supreme Court questioned why, as head of the institution, he did not immediately file a First Information Report (FIR).

His hasty transfer to another hospital following his resignation under public pressure also drew significant scrutiny, leading the Calcutta High Court to suggest he take a leave of absence instead.

Gadkari Advocates 51% Foreign Stake in Tunnel Projects for Improved Quality

Union Road Transport and Highways Minister Nitin Gadkari on Tuesday advocated for a 51 percent stake to be given to foreign partners in joint ventures for building tunnels and preparing Detailed Project Reports (DPRs) in India. This, he believes, is essential to ensure that only serious and technically qualified companies bid for such critical infrastructure projects, thereby improving the quality of work.

Speaking at an event, Gadkari emphasized the importance of allowing foreign firms to take the lead in joint ventures to prevent substandard practices. In a light-hearted remark, he noted that in some tunnel projects, European companies have partnered with Indian firms that have no experience in construction, such as those providing catering services or running beauty parlours. "I seriously feel that foreign partners must have 51 percent stake, leaving 49 percent for the Indian companies in JV for building DPR and construction of tunnels, to ensure that work is done properly," Gadkari said, stressing the need for technical competence in such projects.

Known for his straightforward views, Gadkari also criticized the current state of DPRs, referring to their creators as "culpits" for poor oversight, which he says has contributed to the increasing incidence of landslides in India, particularly in Uttarakhand and other Himalayan regions. He called for a permanent solution to address these issues, which have become more frequent.

Gadkari also highlighted the economic implications of reducing logistics costs, suggesting that if India could lower its logistics costs to 9 percent, it could boost exports by 1.5 times. Current estimates by the National Council of Applied Economic Research indicate that logistics costs in India ranged from 7.8 percent to 8.9 percent of GDP in 2021-22.

CM Yogi Adityanath Slams Samajwadi Party for Corruption and Anarchy in Mainpuri Address

Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath launched a scathing attack on the Samajwadi Party (SP) during an address in Mainpuri on Tuesday, accusing the party of fostering corruption, anarchy, and hooliganism during its tenure. Adityanath claimed that these issues are "ingrained in the DNA" of the SP, led by Akhilesh Yadav. Highlighting Mainpuri's lag in development, Adityanath questioned why the district, once considered VVIP, faced an identity crisis. He attributed this to the "deeds" of the SP, referencing a case in Kannauj where former SP leader Nawab Singh Yadav was arrested for raping a teenager. Adityanath used this incident to criticize the SP's governance, stating, "Their model is not of development but of loot."

The Chief Minister further alleged that under the SP's rule, jobs were auctioned off, with Akhilesh Yadav and his uncle Shivpal Singh Yadav—whom Adityanath referred to as "Chacha-Bhatija"—engaging in extortion. He accused them of being more concerned about personal gain than the welfare of Mainpuri and Etawah.

Adityanath also accused the SP of banning Janmashtami celebrations in the past, contrasting this with his government's promotion of the festival in all police stations and prisons across the state. He emphasized his commitment to respecting Hindu faith, citing the construction of the Kashi Vishwanath Dham and a grand temple of Ramlalla in Ayodhya.

Concluding his address, Adityanath announced new projects worth Rs 375 crore for the people of the Karhal assembly constituency, reaffirming his government's focus on development.

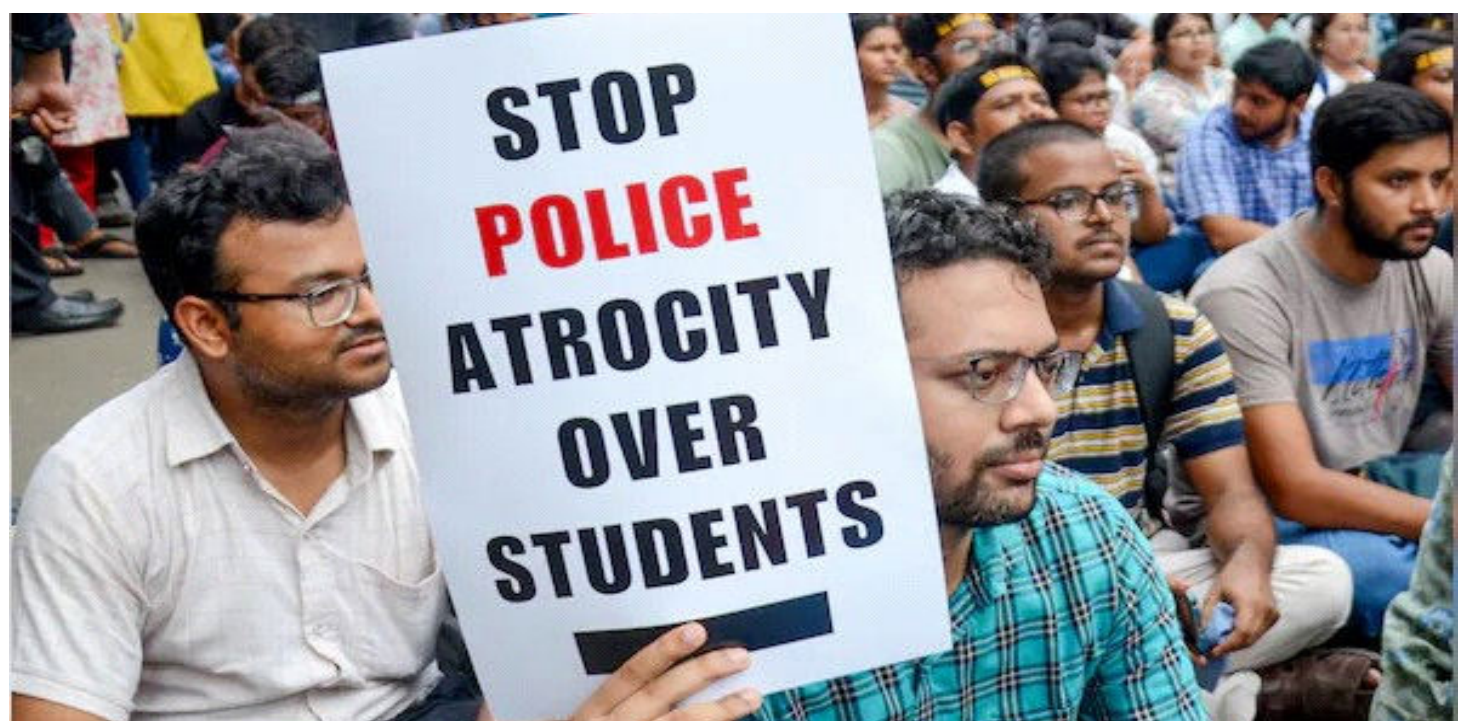

Kolkata: Junior Doctors End 24-Hour Standoff, Demand Police Chief's Resignation

A 24-hour standoff between junior doctors and the Kolkata Police concluded this afternoon as police succumbed to public pressure, removing barricades that had blocked a protest march to the police headquarters in Lalbazar. The protest was sparked by the mishandling of the case involving the rape and murder of a woman doctor at a local hospital last month.

The protesters, carrying a symbolic spinal cord, demanded the resignation of the police chief, whom they accused of negligence. The medics had placed the spine replica on the barricades to underscore the police's duty to protect citizens. "Our agitation will continue until we meet the Commissioner of Police," a doctor told the Press Trust of India.

The protest began yesterday after the arrest of Sandip Ghosh, the former principal of the hospital where the crime occurred. The junior doctors, who had been blocked from reaching Lalbazar, staged a sit-down protest a kilometer away from the police headquarters. The demonstration gained momentum as civil society members joined in, leading to the eventual removal of the barricades. The doctors accused the police of negligence and even suggested a cover-up, pointing to the misinformation given to the victim's parents. Initially, the parents were told their daughter was unwell, and later, that she had committed suicide—a claim made by the hospital's assistant superintendent.

The partially clothed body of the young woman was discovered in the hospital's seminar room on August 9, causing public outrage. The delay in filing an FIR and the insensitive comments by Sandip Ghosh further fueled the protests. Multiple protest marches are now taking place across the city.

PM Modi Arrives in Brunei for Landmark Visit to Strengthen Bilateral Ties

Bandar Seri Begawan: Prime Minister Narendra Modi arrived at the Bandar Seri Begawan Airport this afternoon, marking the beginning of his two-day visit to Brunei Darussalam—the first-ever bilateral visit by an Indian Prime Minister to the Southeast Asian nation. The visit, at the invitation of Sultan Haji Hassanal Bolkihah, comes as India and Brunei celebrate 40 years of diplomatic relations. Expressing his enthusiasm, PM Modi stated, "As we celebrate the 40 years of our diplomatic relations, I look forward to my meetings with His Majesty Sultan Haji Hassanal Bolkihah and other esteemed members of the Royal family to advance our historical relationship to new heights." During his stay, PM Modi will engage in extensive bilateral discussions focusing on areas like defense, trade and investment, energy, space technology, health, culture, and people-to-people exchanges. This visit follows External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar's recent meeting with Brunei's Foreign Minister Erywan Pehin Yusof, where they launched a logo commemorating four decades of diplomatic ties. PM Modi and the Sultan first met in 2014 during the ASEAN Summit and later during the 2017 East Asia Summit in Manila.

Brunei, an important partner in India's Act East Policy, has played a significant role in strengthening India-ASEAN relations. Indian defense companies have also begun participating in Brunei's Defense Industry Expositions, marking deeper defense collaboration. Following his visit to Brunei, PM Modi will travel to Singapore, where he will discuss furthering strategic partnerships in digitalization, advanced manufacturing, and sustainable development with Singapore's leaders. The visit is expected to bolster India's relations with Brunei, Singapore, and the broader ASEAN region.

Australia Deploys Combat Aircraft for India's 'Tarang Shakti' Exercise

The Royal Australian Air Force (RAAF) has made its debut deployment of combat aircraft in India for the ongoing exercise 'Tarang Shakti 24', marking a significant milestone in the bilateral defense relations between the two nations. The exercise, which is being held at Air Force Station Jodhpur from August 30 to September 13, features participation from several countries including Greece, Sri Lanka, UAE, Japan, Singapore, and the United States. Australia has sent three EA-18G Growler aircraft from No 6 Squadron along with up to 120 personnel to take part in this major multilateral air exercise. This deployment is notable as it represents the first time Australia has participated in Exercise Tarang Shakti, which involves

11 participating nations and 18 observer nations. Air Marshal Stephen Chappell, Chief of the Air Force, highlighted that Australia's involvement demonstrates a commitment to supporting regional partners and enhancing international cooperation to address shared security challenges. "India is a top-tier security partner for Australia," Chappell said. "Through the Comprehensive Strategic Partnership, we are prioritizing practical and tangible cooperation that contributes to Indo-Pacific stability." He emphasized that the exercise provides Australian aviators with the opportunity to develop interoperability with foreign militaries, fostering mutual understanding of tactical operations and strengthening international relations. "Participation in international exercises like Tarang Shakti 24 showcases our advanced capabilities and ensures rapid response to emerging threats in the Indo-Pacific region," Chappell added. Australia and India have recently bolstered their air defense cooperation, with previous joint exercises including the Indian Air Force Flankers at Exercise Pitch Black in 2018, 2022, and 2024. Additionally, the Australian Defence Department has engaged in training activities with Indian Navy P-8I Neptune surveillance aircraft. The first phase of Exercise Tarang Shakti, which concluded in Tamil Nadu in August, saw the participation of air forces from Germany, France, Spain, and the UK.

Russian Missile Strike in Poltava Kills 41, Injures Over 180 in Ukraine

Poltava, Ukraine: A devastating Russian missile strike in Ukraine's Poltava region has left at least 41 people dead and more than 180 injured. The attack, which occurred today, targeted a military education facility, a hospital, and an educational institution. According to Ukraine's Ministry of Defence, two Russian ballistic missiles hit the area, partially destroying one of the institute's buildings.

"The time interval between the alarm and the arrival of the deadly missiles was so short that it caught people in the middle of evacuating to the bomb shelter," the Ministry of Defence stated.

President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, in a social media post, confirmed the attack, noting that many people remain trapped under the debris. He expressed deep condolences to the victims' families and praised the efforts of rescue teams who have been working tirelessly to save lives.

The Ukrainian President has ordered a full-scale investigation into the circumstances surrounding the attack and reiterated his call for international support. "We continue to urge everyone in the world who has the power to stop this terror: Ukraine needs air defense systems and missiles now, not sitting in storage. Long-range strikes that can protect us from Russian terror are needed now, not later," Zelenskyy wrote.

Describing the incident as a "terror attack," Zelenskyy vowed that Russia will "surely pay for this strike." Rescue operations are ongoing as the nation mourns the tragic loss of life.

Elon Musk Supports Trump's Plan to Audit US Agencies, Citing Waste and Regulation

Tesla CEO Elon Musk has confirmed his eagerness to collaborate with former President Donald Trump on an initiative to audit US government agencies and identify programs for potential cuts. Musk responded to a report by The Washington Post on X, stating, "I can't wait. There is a lot of waste and needless regulation in government that needs to go."

Trump, the Republican nominee for the 2024 Presidential election, is preparing to establish a commission dedicated to evaluating federal agencies and pinpointing areas for cost reduction. The proposed commission is expected to include prominent business leaders such as Fred Smith, former CEO of FedEx, and Robert Nardelli, former CEO of Home Depot, according to The Washington Post.

Musk's interest in government efficiency is not new. Last month, he posted an AI-generated image of himself at a "Department of Government Efficiency" lectern, indicating his enthusiasm for contributing to such efforts.

While Trump has recognized Musk's potential value as a consultant, some ethics experts are wary of potential conflicts of interest between Musk's business ventures and the commission's goals.

Inspired by past initiatives led by Ronald Reagan and Tom Coburn, Trump's advisers are aiming to recruit high-profile business figures to address federal waste. Musk's increasing political involvement, including hiring a Republican strategist and conducting a recent live interview with Trump on his platform X, underscores his growing influence. Trump has praised Musk, describing him as "fantastic" and "brilliant."

Netanyahu Criticizes UK's "Shameful" Suspension of Arms Export Licenses

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu strongly criticized the British government on Tuesday, labeling its decision to suspend certain arms export licenses to Israel as "shameful." The UK suspended 30 out of 350 licenses over concerns that the equipment could potentially be used in violations of international humanitarian law.

The suspension was announced by British Foreign Minister David Lammy on Monday, a day after Israeli forces recovered the bodies of six hostages from a tunnel in Gaza. The decision has sparked backlash among Israeli ministers.

In response, Netanyahu took to social media to express his disapproval, stating, "This shameful decision will not change Israel's determination to defeat Hamas, a genocidal terrorist organization that savagely murdered 1,200 people on October 7, including 14 British citizens." He emphasized that Hamas still holds over 100 hostages, including five British nationals, and argued that the UK's move would only embolden the militant group.

"With or without British arms, Israel will win this war and secure our common future," Netanyahu declared, underscoring Israel's resolve.

Lammy, following the Labour Party's election victory in July, had initiated a review of arms sales to Israel to ensure compliance with international law. He clarified that British arms exports to Israel constitute less than 1% of Israel's total arms imports and that the suspension would not materially impact Israel's security. Lammy reiterated that the UK supports Israel's right to self-defense.

The ongoing conflict, which began after Hamas' October 7 attacks that killed 1,200 people in southern Israel, has led to more than 40,700 Palestinian deaths in Gaza, according to Palestinian health authorities. Both Israeli and Palestinian leaders are currently under investigation for alleged war crimes in connection with the conflict.

Markets Pause After 13-Day Rally Amid Lackluster Global Cues: Sectoral Rotation Observed

The streak of gains in the domestic stock market ended as the 13-session rally came to a pause. On Tuesday, the indices closed flat due to a lack of cues from international markets, leading to cautious investor sentiment. Nifty inched up by just one point, while Sensex dipped by 4 points, reflecting a rangebound market with low trading volumes. Private banks and insurance companies provided some positive momentum. The market breadth was balanced, with 2,011 stocks advancing and 1,925 declining. The rupee weakened by 5 paise, closing at 83.97 against the dollar.

The BSE Sensex, which previously closed at 82,559, opened at 82,652 and fluctuated between an intraday low of 82,400 and a high of 82,675, eventually closing at 82,555. The NSE Nifty opened at 25,313, hitting a low of 25,235 and a high of 25,321 before closing at 25,279, up by just 1 point. Nifty Bank gained 249 points to settle at 51,689.

Among the Nifty50, 21 companies advanced while 29 declined. SBI Life, Bajaj Finserv, ICICI Bank, HDFC Life, and Hero MotoCorp were the top gainers, while Bajaj Finance, ONGC, Infosys, Adani Ports, and HCL Tech led the losers. Sector-wise, auto, FMCG, IT, media, metal, PSU banks, realty, and oil and gas indices ended in the red, while consumer durables, pharma, finance, and bank indices showed gains.

Notable corporate updates included LIC resuming operations in Bangladesh and various buy ratings for FIEM, SEAT, and GMMAR Power. Defense stocks surged on potential new projects, while Raymond and Godrej Industries hit significant highs.

1. ICICI Bank

ICICI Bank continues to demonstrate strong fundamentals, with robust loan growth, improving asset quality, and solid profitability. The bank has been benefiting from its digital initiatives and increased focus on retail lending. The private banking sector has been a positive contributor to the indices, and ICICI Bank remains a leader in this space. The recent performance suggests sustained investor interest due to its strong financials and strategic initiatives.

2. Power Finance Corporation (PFC)

PFC has been performing steadily, driven by its focus on financing power sector projects. The company's earnings have been supported by stable interest income and improved asset quality. As a key player in power financing, PFC benefits from the ongoing government push for infrastructure development. However, any delays in power projects or regulatory changes could pose risks. PFC is a stable investment, particularly for those looking for exposure to the power sector.

3. Rural Electrification Corporation (REC)

REC, similar to PFC, plays a critical role in financing rural electrification projects. The company has shown steady growth in its loan book, and its financials remain strong. REC has benefited from government initiatives aimed at improving rural infrastructure. Its focus on sustainable financing could provide additional growth opportunities. Given REC's strong positioning and government support, it is a good buy, particularly for those interested in long-term investments in the infrastructure sector.

4. Raymond

Raymond has been undergoing a transformation with its demerger of the lifestyle business, which has positively impacted its stock price. The company is focusing on expanding its textile and real estate segments. The stock has hit a one-month high, driven by positive sentiment around its restructuring and growth in its real estate business. However, volatility remains a concern due to the cyclical nature of the textile industry.

5. Zomato

Zomato has been volatile, reflecting the broader challenges in the food delivery sector, including intense competition and profitability concerns. However, the company's recent focus on cost control and expansion into new markets could drive future growth. Zomato's stock has been influenced by market sentiment around tech and e-commerce stocks. While it has faced pressure due to profitability concerns, long-term growth prospects remain positive. Zomato is suitable for investors with a higher risk appetite who are looking for long-term growth in the tech sector.

World Bank Upgrades India's GDP Growth Forecast to 7% for FY25

The World Bank has revised India's GDP growth forecast to 7% for FY25, up from its earlier estimate of 6.6%. This upward revision is attributed to increased infrastructure investments and a rise in household investments in real estate. The bank also projects a growth rate of 6.7% for FY26. Despite this positive outlook, the report highlights persistent challenges, including high urban youth unemployment at 17% and a loss of market share in labor-intensive sectors like apparel and footwear.

India's economic growth reached 8.2% last fiscal year. However, industrial growth is expected to decelerate to 7.3% in FY26 from 7.6% in FY25, following a robust 9.5% recovery in FY24. The World Bank also anticipates a slowdown in Gross Fixed Capital Formation (GFCF), with growth projected to decrease to 7.8% in FY25 from 9.0% in FY24.

Service sector growth is projected to decline to 7.4% in FY25 and 7.1% in FY26, down from 7.6% in FY24. Conversely, agricultural growth is expected to surge to 4.1% in FY25 from 1.4% in FY24.

On the trade front, global protectionism and increased trade barriers are noted. Despite these challenges, India is enhancing its competitiveness through initiatives like the National Logistics Policy (NLP). Export growth is forecasted at 7.2% in FY25 and FY26, with a rise to 7.9% by FY27. Import growth is expected to slow to 4.1% in FY25 but will increase in subsequent years.

The World Bank report emphasizes opportunities for India to diversify its export portfolio beyond IT, business services, and pharmaceuticals. It also notes that India can improve its position in global value chains and boost trade-related job creation to counter the current account deficit, which is projected to widen in the coming years.

Sebi Highlights Concerns Over SME IPO Practices

Amid rising concerns about potential manipulations in initial public offerings (IPOs) for small and medium enterprises (SMEs), Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) Whole Time Member Ashwani Bhatia addressed the issue on Monday. Bhatia suggested that there may be a lack of adequate due diligence by stock exchanges and merchant bankers involved in these IPOs.

Bhatia's statement underscores the need for improved scrutiny and regulatory oversight to ensure that the process for SME IPOs is transparent and fair. The unusually high demand for these IPOs suggests potential market distortions or speculative activities that could undermine investor confidence and market stability.

His comments come in the wake of a trend where SME listings on the National Stock Exchange (NSE) and Bombay Stock Exchange (BSE) have shown excessive enthusiasm, with some IPOs being oversubscribed by staggering amounts—500 to 700 times. This level of oversubscription has raised questions about the underlying reasons and the integrity of the IPO process for SMEs.

As the SME sector continues to grow and attract investor interest, ensuring robust due diligence and adherence to regulatory standards becomes crucial. The concerns highlighted by Sebi's Ashwani Bhatia point to the necessity for tighter controls and more rigorous assessments by both stock exchanges and merchant bankers to maintain the integrity of the IPO process and protect investor interests.

Oil Prices Drop 2% Amid Demand Concerns and Production Disruptions

Oil prices fell by 2% on Tuesday as weaker economic growth in China, the world's largest crude importer, heightened demand worries. Brent crude futures dropped $1.65, or 2.1%, to $75.87 a barrel by 1004 GMT. Meanwhile, West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude futures, which had not settled on Monday due to the U.S. Labor Day holiday, decreased by $1.06, or 1.4%, to $72.49.

Charalampos Pissouros, a senior investment analyst at XM, attributed the decline to disappointing Chinese manufacturing data. "The weaker-than-expected Chinese manufacturing PMI over the weekend likely exacerbated concerns about China's economic performance," Pissouros said. He noted that while disruptions in Libya and the Middle East are providing some support to prices, they are not enough to counterbalance the demand concerns.

China's economic data showed new export orders fell for the first time in eight months in July, and the pace of new home price increases in August slowed to its weakest of the year.

In Libya, oil exports were halted on Monday, and production was curtailed due to a political standoff over central bank control and oil revenues. The National Oil Corp (NOC) declared force majeure on its El Feel oilfield starting September 2. Libya's production plummeted to around 591,000 barrels per day (bpd) as of August 28 from nearly 959,000 bpd on August 26. Production was about 1.28 million bpd on July 20.

Despite these supply disruptions, limited upside support is expected due to uncertainty over the duration of outages. OPEC+ plans to increase output by 180,000 bpd in October, which could affect price trends. "It remains to be seen how low prices can go before OPEC+ reacts," said Panmure Liberum analyst Ashley Kelty.

Additionally, ongoing disruptions in the Middle East, including minor attacks on oil tankers in the Red Sea, are also influencing the market.

Adani Green Energy and TotalEnergies Launch Solar JV for 1,150 MW Projects

Adani Green Energy Limited (AGEL) and TotalEnergies have announced a strategic joint venture (JV) to manage a portfolio of solar projects totaling 1,150 MW, located within the world's largest renewable energy plant in Khavda, Gujarat.

On September 3, AGEL's stock traded down 1.95% at ₹1,907.20 on the BSE.

Under the new agreement, AGEL will contribute its existing assets to the JV, while TotalEnergies will invest USD 444 million to expedite project development. This partnership aims to accelerate India's transition to clean energy, leveraging AGEL's expertise in large-scale green energy projects. The electricity generated from these solar projects will be sold through Power Purchase Agreements (PPAs) with the Solar Energy Corporation of India (SECI) and on the wholesale market.

AGEL is already leading the development of the Khavda renewable energy plant, which spans 538 square kilometers—five times larger than Paris. The site has thus far operationalized 2,250 MW of solar and wind energy capacity. Once completed, the plant is projected to provide clean energy to over 16 million homes, create more than 15,200 green jobs, and cut CO2 emissions by around 58 million tons annually.

The JV's completion depends on regulatory approvals and other customary closing conditions.

In a related development, Adani Energy Solutions Ltd. (AESL) announced on September 2 that it has finalized the acquisition of the special purpose vehicle (SPV) for the Khavda Phase IV Part-A transmission project. This project, established by REC Power Development and Consultancy (RECPDCL), includes a transmission line to connect Khavda with Lakadia and Bhuj in Gujarat, featuring a transformation capacity of 4,500 MVA.

Weaponised Drones Escalate Crisis in Manipur Amid Ongoing Ethnic Violence

For the first time, the conflict-ridden state of Manipur witnessed the use of weaponised drones to drop bombs, marking a significant escalation in the ongoing ethnic violence between the Meitei community and the Kuki tribes. Until recently, drones were primarily used for personal purposes, such as capturing videos for social media. However, since the clashes began in May 2023, their role has dramatically shifted.

On Sunday, the Manipur Police reported that suspected Kuki insurgents employed high-tech drones to fire rocket-propelled grenades (RPGs) and drop explosives on security forces and civilians. This development has raised alarm among the authorities, as the use of drones for such purposes represents a new and dangerous dimension in the conflict.

The use of these drones became evident during an attack on Koutruk village, where a 31-year-old woman from the Meitei community was killed, and her 12-year-old daughter was among ten others injured. Most of the victims sustained shrapnel wounds from explosives dropped by the drones, according to sources. The police's claim that drones were used to fire RPGs has been met with skepticism, as experts suggest that while drones can be modified to drop bombs, firing RPGs would require a much larger, military-grade drone.

Of RPGs, Bombs, and Drones

The police's assertion that RPGs were fired from drones has sparked debate among defense experts. While drones can be adapted to drop explosives, such as mortar rounds, they would need to fly at a significant altitude to ensure that the bombs hit hard ground for the fuse to ignite. If dropped from a lower altitude or onto soft ground, the bombs may fail to explode. Moreover, firing rockets from a drone is a far more complex task that would require a military-grade drone equipped with a weapon-aiming sight—a capability unlikely to be possessed by the drones seen in Manipur.

From Hobby to Warfare

Before the ethnic violence erupted in May 2023, drones were commonly used by residents of Manipur for recreational purposes, including capturing videos for social media. Both the Meitei and Kuki communities had vloggers with substantial followings on platforms like YouTube and Instagram. However, as tensions escalated, the use of drones shifted from a hobbyist tool to a weapon of war.

Since the clashes began, drones have frequently been spotted over villages near the foothills, where they have been used by both sides to monitor enemy positions and plan attacks or defenses. The appearance of drones over these areas signaled a shift in their usage, as they became tools for reconnaissance and tactical planning rather than social media content creation.

Open Display on Social Media

The growing use of drones in the conflict has also been reflected on social media, where both communities have openly flaunted their drones. Licypriya Kangujam, a child climate activist from Manipur, faced allegations from the Kuki tribes of purchasing high-end thermal drones and donating them to the Meitei volunteer defense group, Arambai Tenggol. This accusation highlights the extent to which drones have become a symbol of power and influence in the ongoing conflict.

In June, Assam's Special Task Force (STF) arrested a man accused of sourcing drone parts for a terror group in Manipur's valley areas. The STF seized a significant stock of drone parts, marking what they called a "major breakthrough" in understanding the extent of drone usage in the region. Another arrest in the same month involved a man attempting to smuggle 10 high-end drone batteries into Manipur for a terror group. Despite claims that these batteries were intended for a filmmaker's association, the incident underscores the growing militarization of drone technology in the state.

Drones in the Regional Context

The use of weaponised drones in Manipur is not an isolated incident in the region. Just across the border in Myanmar, Chin insurgents have used drones to bomb targets belonging to the junta's army in Chin State. The ethnic ties between the Kuki tribes in Manipur and the Chin insurgents in Myanmar have led to allegations that the latter may be assisting the Kukis in their conflict with the Meitei community, although no concrete evidence has been provided by security forces.

The conflict in Manipur, which has claimed over 220 lives and displaced nearly 50,000 people, is rooted in deep-seated ethnic tensions. The general category Meiteis seek inclusion under the Scheduled Tribes category, while the Kuki tribes, who share ethnic ties with people in Myanmar's Chin State and Mizoram, demand a separate administration citing discrimination and unequal distribution of resources.

As the violence in Manipur continues to escalate, the introduction of weaponised drones into the conflict represents a dangerous turning point. The use of such technology not only intensifies the violence but also raises serious concerns about the future trajectory of the conflict and the potential for further escalation.

Viral Video Shows Pilot Cleaning Windscreen, Sparks Online Debate

A recent viral video has garnered significant attention after it captured a Serene Air pilot cleaning the windscreen of his Airbus A330-200 just before takeoff. The footage, which has been widely shared on social media, shows the pilot leaning out of the aircraft's side window to clear the view ahead.

The incident, reported to have occurred on a flight between Pakistan and Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, has sparked a mix of reactions online. Some viewers have expressed surprise and amusement, questioning the unusual sight. One comment read, "Pilot h ya bus conductor (Is he a pilot or a bus conductor)?", while another noted, "Pakistan being Pakistan."

Others have defended the practice, suggesting it is not entirely out of the ordinary. A user commented, "Frankly, pilots do this. Not everyone, sometimes those who are not satisfied by windscreen cleaning." Another added, "Pilots clean all the time."

The video has raised questions about airline safety protocols and the roles of ground staff, highlighting a potential gap in standard procedures. However, the incident also serves as a reminder of the diverse practices that can occur in aviation operations around the world.

In the broader context, Pakistan has been navigating severe economic challenges, including high inflation and substantial public debt. Despite recent support from friendly nations and the IMF, the country's financial situation remains precarious. The new three-year deal with the IMF aims to stabilize the economy and foster more resilient growth, pending approval from the IMF Executive Board.

The viral video, which has since garnered over 45 million views on Instagram, captured the intense moment as viewers watched in disbelief.

The clip begins innocuously enough, with IShowSpeed by a swimming pool, instructing the robot dog to sit and extend its paws. After performing a backflip, he commands the machine to follow him. However, things take a startling turn when he asks the robot to bark, and instead, it starts shooting flames at him. As the video continues to circulate, it serves as a reminder of the unpredictable nature of technology and the risks involved in live demonstrations.

'If Rohit Sharma Comes In Auction...': Punjab Kings Official Hints at Potential IPL Move

Indian cricket team captain Rohit Sharma has recently become the subject of intense speculation regarding his future in the Indian Premier League (IPL). After a decade-long tenure as the captain of Mumbai Indians (MI), Rohit was replaced by all-rounder Hardik Pandya in 2024, a move that sparked mixed reactions from fans, especially as MI endured a disastrous season, finishing last on the points table. The transition was marked by controversy, with Hardik even facing boos at the Wankhede Stadium.

As the 2025 IPL auction approaches, rumors are swirling that Rohit Sharma might decide to join a new team, which would likely ignite a fierce bidding war among the franchises. In a recent interaction, Punjab Kings (PBKS) Head of Cricket Development, Sanjay Bangar, hinted at the possibility of PBKS going all out to acquire Rohit, depending on their financial position.

"It all depends on whether we have the money in our pockets. If Rohit comes in the auction, I certainly believe, he is going to go for a high price," Bangar stated during the RAO Podcast. His comments underscore the high regard in which Rohit is held across the IPL franchises, despite his recent challenges.

Meanwhile, off the field, Rohit Sharma paid tribute to his long-time opening partner, Shikhar Dhawan, who recently announced his retirement from international and domestic cricket. Rohit, reflecting on their close bond, shared a heartfelt message on social media, calling Dhawan "The Ultimate Jatt" and reminiscing about their shared experiences on and off the field.

"From sharing rooms to sharing lifetime memories on the field. You always made my job easier from the other end. THE ULTIMATE JATT," Rohit captioned a series of pictures on Instagram, celebrating their enduring partnership.

As Rohit's future in the IPL remains uncertain, his potential availability in the auction could lead to one of the most exciting bidding wars in recent memory, with teams eager to secure the services of one of the format's greatest players.

Raw Emotions as Sheetal Devi Clinches Her First Paralympics Medal

Sheetal Devi made history by becoming the first Indian woman to win an archery medal at the Paralympics, as she and her teammate Rakesh Kumar secured a bronze in the mixed team compound archery competition. Their remarkable victory, with a nail-biting score of 156-155 over Italy's Eleonora Sarti and Matteo Bonacina, marked only the second time India has won a Paralympic medal in archery. Harvinder Singh had previously achieved this feat with an individual bronze at the Tokyo Games.

The Indian duo staged a stunning comeback after a heartbreaking loss in the semifinals. In a dramatic turn of events during the final end, Sheetal's shot was upgraded from 9 to 10 following a judge's review, sealing the victory for India. The Indians had shot 10, 9, 10, 10 to reach 155, while the Italian pair responded with 9, 9, 10, 10, tying the score at 155-155. The judge's decision to upgrade Sheetal's shot ultimately made the difference. This victory was especially poignant for the 17-year-old Sheetal, who displayed exceptional composure under pressure. Her coach, Kuldeep Vedhwan, was seen rejoicing in the stands, overwhelmed with pride as India celebrated this historic achievement.

KL Rahul Opens Up About Social Media Abuse and Trolling

Indian cricketer KL Rahul has candidly shared his experiences of dealing with online trolling and social media abuse, revealing how it has affected him over the years. Despite being a star player, Rahul has often found himself at the receiving end of criticism, not just for his on-field performances but also for his scoring rates.

In a recent conversation on entrepreneur Nikhil Kamath's YouTube channel, Rahul discussed how he initially managed to handle the trolling well but found it increasingly challenging as the abuse escalated, even when he was not playing. "I used to be good with (handling) trolling. I did not care, but I feel I was much younger back then. And then, a couple of years back, I was exposed to a lot of trolling. If I sat, I got trolled, if I stood, I got trolled," Rahul shared.

Rahul's last international appearance was during the ODI series against Sri Lanka, where he managed to score 31 runs in two innings. Despite a commendable performance in the ICC Cricket World Cup the previous year, where he amassed 452 runs in 10 innings at an average of 75.33, including a century and two fifties, Rahul faced criticism for his knock of 66 off 107 balls in the final against Australia. India's failure to defend 241 runs in that match led to a six-wicket loss, and Rahul's performance became a focal point of the backlash.

In the 2024 Indian Premier League (IPL), Rahul again attracted criticism for his strike rate, despite finishing among the top 10 run-getters with 520 runs in 14 matches at an average of 37.14. His strike rate of 136.12, though respectable, was scrutinized in comparison to other prominent players like Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli, and younger stars such as Rituraj Gaikwad and Sanju Samson.

Rahul also reflected on a difficult moment in his career back in 2019 when he and Hardik Pandya were suspended and fined for comments made during an appearance on the talk show "Koffee With Karan." Although the suspension was short-lived, it left a lasting impact on Rahul, who admitted that it was the first time he had ever faced such disciplinary action, even during his school days.

KL Rahul's openness about the mental toll of online abuse highlights the challenges faced by athletes in the age of social media, where the pressure to perform is compounded by constant scrutiny and criticism from the public.

Bangladesh Stuns Pakistan with Historic 2-0 Test Series Sweep

Bangladesh achieved a historic milestone by securing a 2-0 Test series sweep against Pakistan on their home turf, marking the first time an Asian team has accomplished such a feat in Pakistan. This remarkable achievement not only underscores Bangladesh's growing prowess in Test cricket but also delivers a significant blow to Pakistan, who were looking to bounce back after their earlier defeat in the series.

In the second Test, Pakistan appeared to have set a competitive target with a first-innings score of 274/10, thanks to half-centuries from Saim Ayyub, Shan Masood, and Agha Salman. However, their other key players, including Babar Azam, Abdullah Shafique, and Mohammad Rizwan, failed to make a substantial impact.

Bangladesh's response started disastrously, losing 6 wickets for just 26 runs. However, a brilliant counter-attacking century from Litton Das turned the tide, helping Bangladesh reach 262 before being bowled out. In Pakistan's second innings, they were bundled out for 172, with Bangladesh's Hasan Mahmud claiming a crucial 5-wicket haul. Chasing a target of 185 runs, Bangladesh overcame a few hiccups to secure the win with 6 wickets in hand, sealing the series in dramatic fashion. Litton Das, who played a pivotal role in Bangladesh's victory, was named Player of the Match. Reflecting on the win, Das credited his self-belief and the team's collective effort, acknowledging the challenges posed by Pakistan's bowling and the intense heat.
